November 12, Sunday, 6:30 p.m.
"Wedding Plan"

Michal has been dis-engaged by her fiancé within weeks of their up-coming nuptials, but believing strongly that G_d has a plan for her, Michal, does not cancel the wedding. Michal is going to be married. Somehow. The Wedding Plan won Israel's award for Best Film, for very good reasons.

December 10, Sunday Double Feature
4:00 p.m. "Pickle Recipe"
(note different time)

Joey is a struggling M.C. working the bar mitzvah circuit, who has a sudden need for money after a fire destroys his equipment so he conspires with his shady Uncle Morty to steal his grandmother Rose's most prized possession: her famous top secret dill pickle recipe. Of course, nothing goes as planned.

5:45-6:30 p.m. Bagels and Salads

6:30 p.m. "Tenth Man"

Argentine writer-director Daniel Burman's latest film, "The Tenth Man," is a valentine to the once bustling El Once Jewish neighborhood of Buenos Aires, and to Usher, the real-life macher behind a Jewish welfare foundation located there. This marks a return to one of Burman's oft-repeated themes — a son coming to grips with his relationship with his father. "The Tenth Man" is a low-key charmer, an unlooked-for combination of Jane Austen and Isaac Bashevis Singer. With a twist of Buenos Aires thrown into the mix.

January 7, Sunday 6:30 p.m.

(Snow Date January 28)

"Women's Balcony"

The small Jewish community in The Women's Balcony is a tight-knit one. When they talk, they don't say "I," they say "We." Religion tests gender politics when a devout community suddenly under pressure from a new rabbi to observe their faith in a more rigid way.

February 11, Sunday 6:30 p.m.
