Dr. Emilia Gordon

Dr. Emilia Wong Gordon owns a mobile and consulting veterinary practice in Vancouver that provides services to animal shelters, rescues, academic programs, and other animal welfare stakeholders. As a board-certified shelter medicine specialist, she is particularly interested in practice, research, and teaching concerning One Health and EDI aspects of the work undertaken by veterinary and animal welfare professionals. For many years, she has volunteered for programs that support the human-animal bond in families experiencing marginalization. She is co-founder and Chair of the Canadian Collective for Equity in Veterinary Medicine-Collectivité Canadienne pour l'Équité en Médecine Vétérinaire (CCEVM-CCEMV), an organization formed to address systemic inequities that have resulted in bias, discrimination and oppression within the veterinary field.
