
You are warmly invited to a Holy Week Recital featuring Kathryn Paden and piano accompaniment by Kim Meade. Through a program of sacred works, this concert offers a contemplative space to reflect on the meaning of Christ's passion and the hope that Holy Week brings.

The evening will feature beautiful and moving music, creating a powerful and intimate musical experience. Join us as music helps guide us through the sacred story of Holy Week.

Caledonia Presbyterian Church
7817 N Ruggles Ferry Pike
Knoxville, TN 37924
Sunday, March 29, 2026
6:00pm

If you haven't heard Kathryn sing, you don't want to miss this event. Kathryn Paden grew up in Knoxville and continues to call Knoxville home. She serves as the Church Administrator at Second Presbyterian Church while also maintaining a vibrant career as a local performer and educator.

With over 15 years of experience teaching voice lessons, she is deeply rooted in the Knoxville music community. She sings with the Knoxville Choral Society, Knoxville Chamber Chorale, and Amadeus Chamber Ensemble, and performs contracted work with the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, such as their education and holiday concerts. She is currently in her fourth season with the KSO as the narrator for their Musical Story Time program, where she reads alongside a string quartet at local libraries, schools, and daycare facilities.

Kathryn has been a member of Fountain City United Methodist Church since the age of 9 and has practically been raised by the music ministry there. She is a graduate of Central High School and received a Bachelor of Arts in Music from Tennessee Wesleyan University.

Kim Meade received her degree from Carson Newman University in Music Education. She has enjoyed playing for several churches in Knoxville and Ohio, a country club in KY and the Orangery restaurant in Knoxville. She currently teaches piano lessons and is the pianist at Fountain City United Methodist Church where she has served for the past 16 years.

