ABOUT THE COBB COLLABORATIVE & CIVIC ENGAGEMENT:
The Cobb Collaborative is proud to serve as the local partner for the state-wide network known as the Georgia Family Connection Partnership (GaFCP). This unique network brings together more than 3,000 local- and state-level partners in all 159 counties across Georgia who work toward measurably better outcomes for our state's children, families, and communities. The Cobb Collaborative focuses on three initiatives to improve outcomes specific to Cobb County – Literacy, Mental Health, & Civic Engagement.

What is Civic Engagement? Civic engagement is working with local institutions and fellow residents to promote meaningful actions, movements, and relationships within a community or population. This can take many forms of political, social, and individual efforts, from voter registration to talking politics with friends or family to trusting local businesses and participating in community groups. Research tells us that high levels of civic health correspond to lower crime rates, better public health outcomes, and greater economic resilience, particularly during economic downturns. Our goal is to improve our community by empowering the people of Cobb County to become highly engaged and informed citizens.
