Hi Rick,

Fred D'Ambrosi, former news director at WOIO in Cleveland and WUSA in Washington, DC, has been hired (starting today) as a performance review analyst at the Voice of America, the US government's international media operation in Washington, DC, where he'll be part of VOA's internal "news consultant" team advising VOA's 47 different language services.

Other former news directors now at VOA include Billy Otwell, former WTNH in New Haven news director, and John Lippman, former Univision Television SVP for news, who both joined as Performance Review Analysts; and Yolanda Lopez, former news director at WGBO in Chicago, and Sandra Thomas, former news director at KDTV in San Francisco.

Best,

John