

It is with great sadness that I have to share the news that Sarah passed away unexpectedly this week. We are all trying to wrap our heads around the news, trying to understand and accept as best we can. As Sarah's family and friends, we've all experienced her fierce love; her wicked humor; her generosity; her devotion to those close to her, and we will all have to work to navigate the unimaginable void. She was, quite simply, extraordinary.
As of now there are no plans for an immediate funeral service; we will instead plan for a celebration of her life after the holidays. We know in our hearts there is nothing Sarah would want more than a celebration.