Mushambi Mutuma is the Managing Director and Founder of Altivex Creative Foundry. Born in Harare, Zimbabwe Mushambi studied in the US at Pepperdine University as a Political Science and Studio Art double major. He worked in the public health sector for several years before coming back to his creative roots as he puts it. Altivex has been running since late 2010 and is clearly defined as a digital strategy agency. The business places focus on web design and development, social media marketing and management as well as mobile app development amongst other services. “I saw a gap in the market for our demographic and expertise. Good business is all about filling the gaps and servicing them well. Getting to work in the digital space means we have no limits, it’s exciting to push the boundaries on each project” -he says.

In addition to Altivex, Mushambi has founded Kairos. In ancient Greece, Kairos meant the “opportune moment” or the “supreme moment”. Kairos aims to foster support and encouragement for young entrepreneurs. “Put simply, we help entrepreneurs unlock the value in their small businesses that will enable them to be geared for growth”.
