Strategic Health Concepts (SHC) is a Colorado-based company incorporated in 1995 to enhance the capacity of health-related organizations to better achieve their missions. We accomplish this by providing strategic planning, organizational development, partnering and program development services. SHC has expertise and experience in a wide range of public health issues including: cancer, injury prevention, cardiovascular disease, diabetes, end-of-life care, nutrition, physical activity, suicide prevention, and tobacco use. SHC provides clients with a tailored process to best meet their desired outcomes through a variety of methods including group process and facilitation, capacity building and training, issues management, strategy development, program development, technical assistance and evaluation. SHC has been privileged to provide its services to well over 100 organizations from the government, private and not-for-profit sectors. Clients include both national, state and community level organizations. SHC has provided services to most states throughout our nation, as well as multiple tribes, territories and all US Pacific Island jurisdictions. SHC excels in the ability to facilitate diverse perspectives of all stakeholders, including technical and organizational expertise and experience to reach a shared and supported plan of action.
