

We find ourselves in an era of transitions, a time of letting go and emerging horizons. As religious institutes turn their attention to the changes necessary for thriving in the future, their charism carrier communities must also navigate how these changes impact the way they carry the charism into the world. This Appreciative Inquiry process will help your charism carrier community gain clarity around these transitions by:

- Discovering a shared understanding of the moment and your collective strengths
- Dreaming of how the charism might be carried into the future
- Designing ways to leverage strengths in moving towards the envisioned future
- Deploying next steps by calling forth the giftedness of your community
