

Jaime Wyrzten Lauze

Singer, Author, Radio Host

Jaime Lauze' (pronounced low-Zay) will tell you, "Giving in to despair is instinctive. Giving in to hope takes courage and faith." She knows. Though Jaime grew up in a prominent Christian family, (her grandfather was the evangelist Jack Wyrzten and her mother is Christine Wyrzten), she was not insulated from pain.

Life-Themes:

Adoption

Abortion

Prayer

Anger

Hope

God's Sovereignty

Forgiveness

Her adoption story has been the topic of many national radio and television programs over the years. God had His hand on her before she was born. He never removed it. But in His sovereignty, He destined her to walk through more dark times. All of this drove Jaime towards a gutsy faith. She is outspoken, warm, passionate, authentic, and articulate about the hope Jesus offers.

A professionally trained singer, Jaime reinforces each presentation with music. She is a communicator. Whether she sings or speaks, the hope Christ offers is a theme that compels and encourages women of all ages to trust Christ where they never have before, at the places of their deepest hurts. Her passion is contagious.

Jaime graduated from Cedarville University and majored in Communications and Theatre. She is married to Todd Lauze, a micro-biologist. They have two young sons, Gabriel and Andrew, and they reside in Athens, Georgia.
