Parent & Guardian Code of Conduct

Updated: July 2026

At Aberdeen Hall, a positive partnership between the school and families is essential to our shared mission of empowering students to become compassionate, contributing citizens. Grounded in our core values of resilience, responsibility, integrity, optimism, curiosity, and kindness, we expect our adult community to help model the standards of behavior we teach our students.
These guidelines apply to all parents and guardians across all interactions involving the school (in person, written, and online) to help us sustain a welcoming, safe, and inclusive environment together.

The Role of Parents and Guardians

Parents play a wonderful and critical role in supporting a respectful learning environment. We encourage you to help by:

- Showing personal regard for all school employees.
- Modeling the school's core values for your child.
- Staying engaged with your child's progress and reading school communications.
- Ensuring your child is on time, in uniform, and prepared for school.
- Partnering collaboratively with staff to constructively address any disciplinary matters.

Standards of Behaviour and Conduct

To best support the holistic development of our students, we ask our parents to:

- Communicate with courtesy and respect, especially when there are differing viewpoints.
- Direct any concerns to the appropriate school personnel for a collaborative resolution.
- Demonstrate honesty, integrity, and fair treatment of everyone, regardless of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age, or disability.
- Respect the learning environment and show care for school property.
- Value diverse perspectives and resolve any conflicts peacefully.

Inappropriate Behaviour and Misconduct

To maintain a nurturing space for everyone, we kindly ask our community to avoid behaviors such as:

- Disrespect, yelling, swearing, or actions that could be injurious to others' physical or mental well-being.

- Spreading rumors or gossiping about the community (verbally or online).
- Bullying, threatening, harassing, or making personal insults.
- Violating the privacy of school personnel.
- Interacting with staff for school business while impaired or intoxicated.

Addressing Misconduct

When these shared expectations are not met, the School Administration will work to address the situation. Depending on the circumstances, steps may include:
- A temporary loss of privileges to attend school events or enter the campus.
- Changes to how communication with school employees is handled.
- In severe situations, deregistration of enrolled children.

To help resolve concerns and begin restoring affected relationships, we will ask any parent or guardian involved in a situation contrary to these guidelines to join a meeting with School Administrator(s) within one week of the incident.
