Rowing festival returns to High Point

LAURA GREENE | HPE

Rowers cross the finish line as thousands of spectators cheer them on during Saturday's High Point Autumn Rowing Festival held at Oak Hollow Festival Park. The event featuring the Lenny Peters Cup is an international rowing competition with local and international participants. Nearly 1,000 rowers, including collegiate teams from High Point University and Duke University, University of Edinburgh and Oxford University, competed in the event. The Lenny Peters Foundation and Bethany Medical sponsored the event, which generates more than $2.6 million in economic impact.