HIGH POINT — Jim 'N Nick's Community Bar-B-Q restaurant will open its first High Point location on Wednesday.

Following a ceremonial ribbon-cutting, the restaurant will open for business at 11 a.m. at 4013 Andres Ave. in the new Palladium South development off W. Wendover Avenue near Penny Road.

"The brand was founded in Alabama in 1985 and has mastered the art of slow-cooked, hickory-smoked barbecue with scratch-made trimmings," according to a news release.

It occupies a newly constructed, 4,880-square-foot building with a drive-thru. It's the second business to open within Palladium South, following retail coffee chain 7 Brew, which opened in September.

The new restaurant is owned by Jason Trenkler, and Sabrina Wielandt is the general manager.
