Health department hosts fall festival

Above: Aniyah York, 11, and her sister Avaylah, 2, enjoy hula hooping together while attending the Fall Festival Fun Day hosted by the Guilford County Department of Public Health Women, Infants and Children Program. In addition to fun interactive stations that promote physical activity, the festival featured pumpkin decorating, raffles and prizes, face painting, healthy snacks and information to support WIC participants and their families. Right: Marie Boltz, left, and April Starr, right, with the Guilford County Department of Public Health, lead families in an interactive activity using a parachute and beach ball during the festival, which focused on the theme "Let's Keep Moving."
