Notable Works' Book Release Celebration @ William Hall

Voices of the Earth: The Future of Our Planet IV

Building Innovative Bridges for Tomorrow

Special Presentation by Sara Sampieri Horvet
Stormwater Outreach and Engagement Program Manager
(Audubon Society of Rhode Island)

Musical Performance by
The Notable Works' Ensemble:
Maria Bilyeu, cello; Teresa Gervais, flute;
Noreen Inglesi, composer and vocals;
Beth Schapira, lead vocals;
Alison Shea, piano and vocals
and Special Guest Mary Zema, composer, guitar and vocals.

Featured Poets:
Christopher Gaynor, Kate Hamilton,
Theresa Hickey, Janet D. Johnson,
Peg Paolino and Sherri Stepakoff.

Open Mic for Poetry (First Come First Served)

Saturday, June 27, 2026 11 AM to 1 PM
William Hall Library Auditorium
1825 Broad Street, Cranston RI 02905

(Registration is optional and open now)
https://events.cranstonlibrary.org/event/15054559

For more information visit:
www.notableworks.org

Notable Works
Publication & Distribution Co., Inc.

Stormwater Innovation Center

Cranston Public Library

RISCA
Rhode Island State Council on the Arts

Directions to the William Hall Library Auditorium in Cranston (1825 Broad St, just down from Pawtuxet Village)

from 95 going north. Take the route 10 exit and take the right fork and then turn right onto Elmwood Avenue. You will come to a light and turn left there onto Park Ave. You will go by a fire station on the left at a big intersection. Keep going straight. Follow Park Ave to where you must turn left or right. Turn to the left and the William Hall Library is set back from the street on your left about ¼ mile from where you turned. The entrance to the library is just passed the library sign again on your left. It is sort of hard to see the entrance to the library. The auditorium is on the right-hand side of the library building. As you come in the entrance, park wherever you can and go up the ramp again on the right-hand side of the building in the back. There is a sign saying "auditorium" and the ramp to the auditorium is toward the back of the building again on the right-hand side of the library as you face this building.

Going South on195 towards New York. Take the Cranston Street exit. Do not take the first exit off the that exit. Take the Park Ave. exit off the Cranston Street exit further down. Stay to the left on route 10 and turn left onto Park Ave. That is a dead-end so you can turn left or right. Again, turn left. Go straight for about a mile or so. You will go by a fire station on the left across the street at a big intersection. Keep going straight. Follow Park Ave to where you must turn left or right. Turn to the left and the William Hall Library is set back from the street on your left about ¼ mile from where you turned. The entrance to the library is just passed the library sign again on your left. It is sort of hard to see the entrance to the library. The auditorium is on the right-hand side of the library building. As you come in the entrance, park wherever you can and go up the ramp again on the right-hand side of the building in the back. There is a sign saying "auditorium" and the ramp to the auditorium is toward the back of the building again on the right-hand side of the library as you face this building.