U.S. MISSIONS
THE GOSPEL DISPLAYED

A message from Pastor Choco

I am honored to address you as the new executive director of U.S. Missions.

It is with purpose and joy that our ministries and U.S. missionaries reach the rich diversity in the United States, making The Gospel Displayed in its various methods and messages of evangelism. They are strategically meeting the needs of those not easily reached in the United States to ensure the transformative power of the gospel reaches every corner of our nation.

Embracing Change for Greater Impact

In evangelism, as in all areas of life, there is room for improved and effective outreach. Like updating a stretched and worn engine belt to improve performance, we must continuously refine our evangelistic methods to ensure they are as effective as possible in communicating the gospel.

Defining a U.S. Missionary

At the heart of our mission is the role of the U.S. missionary—called by God and sent by the Church, dedicated to sharing the gospel across diverse communities, especially those that might not easily hear or be reached by traditional methods. This commitment is crucial as we seek to navigate and minister within the beautifully complex tapestry of cultures, languages, and backgrounds that make up our country.

Looking forward, let me introduce our fresh vision for U.S. Missions: SEEK, SAVE, SEND. This not only acknowledges the unique challenges of our time but also seizes the unprecedented opportunities it presents. This vision is threefold:

- SEEK: Our vision seeks to ensure every individual in the United States experiences the transformative power of the gospel of Jesus Christ, becoming active disciples within their local churches.
- SAVE: Our mission is to empower nationwide ministries and outreaches that are strategic in evangelism and discipleship, enabling U.S. missionaries to effectively share the gospel.
- SEND: Our strategy supports and endorses our U.S. missionaries as they deliver the gospel strategically, in collaboration with Assemblies of God districts, churches, and various ministry networks to fulfill the Great Commission.
