2026 Travel Awardees Named

Debra Bangasser, Ph.D., Education & Training Committee Chair
Ryan Bachtell, Ph.D., Education & Training Committee Co-Chair

The Education & Training Committee is pleased to announce the selection of 59 outstanding scientists for the 2026 ACNP Travel Award program. We received 335 applications for the 59 awards, making this yet another year for difficult decisions by the committee. In addition, the ACNP continues to partner with the ADAA (Anxiety Disorders Association of America) to offer invitations to their selected young researchers to attend the meeting.

The award benefit will allow these outstanding scientists the opportunity to attend the in-person meeting in San Diego, California or experience the meeting on a virtual platform via recordings available following the meeting. They will also experience the one-on-one mentorship experience with an ACNP member, which is a vitally important part of the travel award program.

The Travel Award program remains a key pathway program for the College, as it brings the best and brightest up and coming scientists in the field to participate in the Annual Meeting, some of whom will eventually go on to become members.
