Rabbi Mike Moskowitz

Scholar-in-Residence for Trans and Queer Jewish Studies

Beit Simchat Torah CONGREGATION

קהלה קדושה בית שמחת תורה

An LGBTQ synagogue for people of all sexual orientations and gender identities

Rabbi Mike Moskowitz is a deeply traditional and radically progressive advocate for trans rights and a vocal ally for LGBT inclusivity. Raised as a secular Jew, he began identifying as Orthodox at 17 and spent the next 20 years learning and teaching in the world of yeshivahs, and received three Ultra Orthodox ordinations.

As Scholar-in-Residence for Trans and Queer Jewish Studies at Congregation Beit Simchat Torah, Rabbi Moskowitz studies, writes, and teaches on trans issues and Jewish sources, creating a body of work used all over the world.

Saturday, January 26, 6:30pm

Lincoln Park Jewish Center — 311 Central Park Ave, Yonkers, NY

Refreshments and Cake, Coffee will be provided. Small donations accepted.

Read Rabbi Moskowitz's articles and find more resources at rabbimikemoskowitz.com.

Listen to Rabbi Moskowitz on NPR's Here and Now at bit.ly/RabbiMoskowitzNPR.