Our Lady of Mercy Academy Joins the Perennial Catholic School Network

Keene, NH — 7/27/26 — Our Lady of Mercy Academy is pleased to announce that it has joined the Perennial Catholic School Network (PCEN), an initiative of the St. John Henry Newman Institute dedicated to strengthening Catholic schools rooted in the Church's intellectual tradition.

For families, this partnership represents an investment in the future of their children's education. Through the Network, Our Lady of Mercy Academy will receive ongoing support, faculty formation, and access to a growing community of Catholic schools committed to providing an education that forms both the mind and the soul.

"Joining the Perennial Catholic School Network is an exciting milestone in our journey to build a truly Catholic, classical high school. This partnership strengthens our commitment to forming both saints and scholars by investing in our teachers, deepening our academic program, and connecting us with a community of schools dedicated to truth, beauty, and goodness.

At Our Lady of Mercy Academy, we are committed to teaching students not simply what to think, but how to think, to seek truth with wisdom, discern well, and engage the world with both reason and faith. We want our graduates to know their Catholic faith, articulate it with confidence, and defend it with charity and conviction, while developing the intellectual habits to thoughtfully engage every discipline. Our goal is to prepare young men and women for college, careers, and lives of faithful leadership, joyful service, and lasting purpose."

Membership in the Perennial Catholic School Network equips teachers with continued professional development, connects the school with experienced Catholic educators across the country, and provides resources that strengthen both academic excellence and authentic Catholic identity. These opportunities ultimately enrich the classroom experience, helping students grow in wisdom, virtue, and a lifelong love of truth.

As Our Lady of Mercy Academy continues to serve its families, joining the Network reflects the school's commitment to offering an education that prepares students not only for college and careers, but also for lives of faithful leadership, service, and holiness.

About Our Lady of Mercy Academy

Our Lady of Mercy Academy is a Catholic high school located in Keene, NH. Rooted in the teachings of the Catholic Church, the school partners with parents to cultivate intellectual excellence, moral virtue, and a joyful love of learning through a rich liberal arts education and vibrant sacramental life. Learn more at mercyacademykeene.org.

About the Perennial Catholic School Network

The Perennial Catholic School Network (PCEN), an initiative of the St. John Henry Newman Institute, brings together Catholic schools committed to renewing education through the Church's intellectual tradition. By providing faculty formation, mentorship, and collaborative resources, the Network helps schools strengthen their Catholic mission while supporting the flourishing of every student entrusted to their care. Learn more at members.jhni.org.