PRAYER OF CONFESSION — Eric Robinson

Gracious God,
we come to you as runners who are tired of the race.
We confess that when trials last longer than we expect,
our hope begins to fade, and we wonder if you are still at work.
We confess that we become so used to the shadows
that we forget to look for the glimpses of your joy.
We have failed to notice the "thin places"
where you are breaking through.
We have failed to be an encouragement
to those running beside us.
Forgive us, Lord.
Interrupt our heaviness with your spirit.
Surprise us with a joy that doesn't make sense
but makes us whole.

(a moment for silent reflection)
