We Are Light

Ellen Matalach

Something is happening. Even while a new administration is being ushered in. Even as we who believe in freedom are curious about which freedoms will be eroded. Even as a national anxiety grabs hold of us, a kind of non-specific anxiety that hangs heavy in the air, like a dark cloud.

Something is happening. It is also in the atmosphere. It is like what happens on a mountaintop, or on a grassy plain. The cloud is thick, heavy, dark. And then the sky turns from midnight blue to navy. Just over the horizon, there is a hint of gray as the sun begins to bounce off the mist. Soon shades of green and yellow appear, and the cloud is rolled back by the light of dawn, leaving whispers of something left over—scattering, feathery, evaporating, and then, light.

In the beginning, the poet says, when God created the heavens and the earth, the earth was a formless void and darkness covered everything. God spoke and light appeared, scattering the dark shadowy cloudy mist and illuminating a forming thing. Earth. Sky. Waters. Creatures. Humankind.

In the beginning, another poet writes, was the Word; this Word was the light of all humankind and the darkness could not overtake it.

We know the darkness comes, though, don't we? It comes on schedule. It comes and we need its arrival. It slows us down, it causes us to light candles and soft fires and lamps for reading. It brings a short sabbath, it lulls us to sleep and then we awake, once more, to the light.

The darkness comes, and with it fertility in soil, and babies in the womb. Photographs in the soup of development, new ideas developing in times that feel desperately dark.

The Light that was the light of all humankind was, our stories say, born of a woman in the darkness of a womb. Pushed out into the light while she squatted over hay. Caught by the gnarly hands of her carpenter husband Joe. Nursed by his mama Mary.

Something is happening. In the cycle of dark and light. In the circle of life that includes death and birth. Something is happening, something totally new, and totally necessary. We are becoming, in the dark and in the light, we are becoming allies, family, colleagues, agents of change.

Something is happening, the dawning of hope, the rising of new visions of possibility, the gestation of new life.

We are becoming light workers, we are light itself. We are light, and nothing can overcome the light.

Thank you for being the light.

*You are so loved,
Jacqui*

Rev. Dr. Jacqui Lewis is Senior Minister at Middle Collegiate Church.

The Butterfly team has finished its ministry for the year. Thank you to every volunteer who made sandwiches, packed 180 bag lunches, and delivered them to Tompkins Square Park and Sara Roosevelt Park each Sunday from Easter through Thanksgiving—that's more than 5,700 lunches to the hungry in our community! You are love in action. Special thanks to team leaders Danita Branam and George Winters.

Beatrice de Géa

From the joy of Homecoming to the challenge of the election, worship this autumn has been full of inspiring songs and thoughtful sermons. Thank you for generously donating your time and talents to share your gifts of music, dance, and art both in our sanctuary and throughout the city at rallies for racial, LGBT, and economic justice.

Nicola Bailey

On the day after the election, hundreds of New Yorkers gathered in Washington Square Park for our interfaith gathering, Songs for the Soul. Jacqui spoke and our team helped lead music. It was a time to lament, grieve, and worship together. We organized the event with our partners at Auburn Seminary.

We are excited to announce that Chad Tanaka Pack will be ordained in the Reformed Church of America (RCA) at Middle Church on January 15, 2017 at 4:00 PM. This is a photo of Chad and Jacqui after he passed his exams at the Classis of New York meeting in November. Thank you to all of you who have organized and supported Chad and this process with Revolutionary Love over the last eight years.

Middle Collegiate Church is a celebrating, culturally diverse, inclusive, and growing community of faith where all persons are welcomed just as they are as they come through the door. Rooted in Christian tradition as the oldest continuous Protestant Church in North America, Middle Church is called by God to boldly do a new thing on the earth.

As a teaching congregation that celebrates the arts, our ministries include rich and meaningful worship, care, and education that nurture the mind, body, and spirit, social action which embraces the global community, and participation in interfaith dialogue for the purpose of justice and reconciliation.

Care Line For pastoral care emergencies, call 212-477-0666 EXT 318 to leave your urgent message in the Pastoral Care Mailbox. A Middle Church pastor will return your call as soon as she or he is able. Only Middle pastors have access to the Pastoral Care Mailbox. All messages are treated confidentially.
