Resistance. Resilience. Rise.

When I was younger, I experienced Lent as a sorrowful time; I'd spend many days ruminating on the death of Christ, and think about my own death, of sure-to-come deaths of my parents, and the deaths of my ancestors. I'd be sad, and somewhat comforted by the promise of resurrection. Now, I have come to understand that from the day we are born, the day we are liberated from the amniotic space of the womb, we take a breath and we begin to die. We fill the room with our first cries, and we are journeying toward death. There is no way to avoid that. So, my sense of Lent has shifted to a journey toward life. It is a time of spiritual reflection, a journey toward our best, most authentic, filled-with-Spirit self. It is a quest for the self, a quest for life.

What is that authentic self like? I am not quite sure, but I feel like I am in a birth canal. I feel pushed, and squeezed, and a little bit traumatized. I watch the news and feel sad and frustrated. Then I go to Twitter and I see all of the pop-up love and organizing and I feel hopeful. Sometimes I feel a strong sense of disequilibrium. At other times, I am quite simply euphoric, like I am in the space of that super-human strength women talk about during childbirth. What I am giving birth to, thanks to all of the forces bearing upon me, is myself, thanks be to God.

My friend and Middle Scholar-in-Residence, Valarie Kaur, suggests our nation is in a birth canal. That these crazy times are not about the "darkness of the tomb...but the darkness of the womb." I know she is right. We are all being born; we are all becoming. We as a people are discovering what we are made of, who we will be, who we are called to be. The Apostle Paul suggested that all of creation is waiting like a mother in childbirth, waiting to see the children of God be revealed. (Romans 8:19-39). I LOVE that!!

I believe these times are about all of us being pushed to discover who we truly are. The current cultural context demands self-examination; it requires conversation partners—friends, pastors, therapists, parents, siblings, lovers—and a space to say, "Can you believe this?!?" both about the terrible, awful things AND about the ways we as a people are witnessing folk resisting and loving their way forward. We as a nation are being re-born, pushed to a new place.

What if our Lenten journey is about resilience, resistance, and rising? What if we look squarely at what must die: oppressive systems of injustice; greed and avarice; a broken sense of entitlement and exceptionalism, for example. What if we imagine these tough times as the dying of those things and the birthing of God's plan for a healed and whole world?

So, on a personal level, I am inviting us to make our Lenten journey about shedding things, giving up useless things, bad habits, old coping mechanisms. Let's get free to try on new ways of thinking, of living, of being. Let's leave the placenta that grew us in the womb, and emerge with fresh new vision, new expectations, new hope. Let's use Lent to take a deep breath of Spirit and emerge from the birth canal with a primal prayer, "Here I am! Thank you Spirit/Breath for animating me. I am here." Our own re-birth can help birth a nation that shares the values of the Reign of God. Together, we can pray, "We are here, we're here for all of us!"

Middle Church and the Middle Project will host our 11th annual conference, April 28-30, that posits multiracial/multicultural congregations as an antidote to racism and discrimination. Revolutionary Love: Disruptive Ethics to Dismantle Racism features speakers including Valarie Kaur, William Barber, Bill Moyers, Brian McLaren, Genesis Be, Shaun King, and BETTY! You MUST come to this conference; it is part of our birthing a movement of love and justice. Revolutionary Love is gestating at the conference. A Love Revolution is being born in the pushing and shoving and stress of these days.

Lent is a journey to the Love Revolution in which our best selves are revealed, and our more perfect union is forged. As we go deep and pay attention, even in hot-mess times, we can fuel our resistance with love; we can celebrate our resilience. And we will rise.

Rev. Dr. Jacqui Lewis is Senior Minister at Middle Collegiate Church.

Lenten Bible Study

Sundays, April 2 and 9 • 9:30–10:45 AM • Parlor

Experience the season of Lent grounded in scripture. The Middle Church Lenten “Sacred Presence” Bible study will meet for prayer and reflection using the Gospel According to Luke as our text. Participants may attend all sessions, or drop in as you are able. The Bible Study is led by Middle members Catherine Torpey, an ordained minister, and Susanna Williams. To RSVP, contact Rob Stephens at rstephens@middlechurch.org.

The Butterfly Meal Needs You!

Sundays beginning April 23 • 9:00 AM, 10:00 AM, and 12:30 PM

Every Sunday before worship, from April 23 through November, a team of dedicated volunteers gather to make bag lunches. After worship, team members venture to local parks to distribute the lunch bags to anyone who is hungry for one. To join the team, contact Cheryl Cochran at ccochran@middlechurch.org.

Interfaith Playdate More than 60 children and 40 adults from our neighborhood mosque as well as synagogues, churches, and temples filled our 3rd and 4th floors with music, crafts, and getting-to-know-you games. Middle Church was thrilled to host Muslim, Jewish, Hari Krishna, and Christian children for our interfaith playdate on March 19. This lively gathering lives out your vision of Love.Period. Thank you, Middle Church!

Ushers & Greeters Appreciation & Training

Sunday, April 2 • 12:45–2:30 PM • 4th Floor Classroom

Many thanks to all who offer welcome to our Middle congregation and visitors. YOU know that first impressions matter! If you are a current usher or greeter, or if you would like to become an usher at Middle Church, please attend a highly informative usher and greeter appreciation and training with Lynn Min and Jacqui Lewis. We'll celebrate your good work and learn new protocols to share Middle's signature hospitality. Please RSVP to Lynn Min at linmin@middlechurch.org.

Soul Care = Yoga + Praying Dangerously

Wednesday, April 5 • 7:00–9:00 PM • Community Room

In these times, it is important to nurture our spirit, body, and mind with self-care and spiritual practices. A Middle member has gifted our community with an evening of a free yoga class and then a session of praying dangerously. Yoga will be offered by Claudia Debs of Sacred Vessel Yoga in the first hour. This class is open to all levels. After moving together in a form of physical prayer, we will conclude with a session of Praying Dangerously, led by Christina Fleming. Please bring a yoga mat. Please RSVP to bit.ly/YogaAndPrayer or cfleming@middlechurch.org.

Just Faith: A Pentecost Bible Study

Wednesdays, April 19–May 31 • 6:30–8:00 PM • Parlor

The Acts of the Apostles is the genesis story of the Church and the Jesus movement. This is a tale with drama, personality clashes, cliques, political lines and theological debates—a little like communities today! It is also an organizer's handbook for building social movements. In this seven-week series on Wednesday evenings, we will ask and engage questions like: How did the first generation of Jesus followers live out the Good News, engage contradictions, build relationships and community across difference? Come learn, pray, and question with Rob Stephens to discover what fresh truths the ancient Book of Acts might hold for us today in our lives, work, families and faith journeys. A light supper will be served. Please RSVP at bit.ly/JustFaithBible or rstephens@middlechurch.org.
