

RAPID IT TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT INITIATIVE

AN H-1B GRANT FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

About the Rapid IT Training and Employment Initiative (RITEI)

The RITEI program, led by Jobs for the Future in partnership with the Colorado Community College System, connects unemployed and underemployed workers to jobs in Information Technology (IT) and advance current workers to middle- and high-skill positions. This state program covers tuition costs—so training is free for learners.

Why IT?

IT occupations are projected to grow 11% nationwide from 2019 through 2029, adding a total of 4.4 million jobs through 2030. Most new jobs will be in IT support, collection and storage of big data, user experience, and information security—skills that participants can learn through this program.

About the Program

RITEI will train eligible individuals for in-demand CompTIA A+ Certification or the Google IT Support Professional Certificate, paired with paid work-based learning opportunities, such as an internship or apprenticeship. The program is free, entirely online, and self-paced with one-one-one support coaching. Plan to spend about 10 hours per week for three to five months to earn your credential, depending on the program you choose.
