Whether you're going at it alone or working with a firm, building your business' or organization's website may seem like a daunting task. And it should be! Websites are custom and personal representations of your brand. It's a big deal and important to get right. But before you run for the hills, take a deep breath. We have a few steps to take and ideas to keep in mind before and during the process that will help you calmly achieve all your website goals, hopes, and dreams.

Kim Dixon , Insights, LLC will share her knowledge and expertise.

The Ignite Your Marketing workshops are designed to help business owners fine-tune marketing skills to gain name recognition in the community and effectively reach their desired customer base.
