^ When an individual that is out on PRS is arrested and brought back into custody and has pending criminal charges, that person can request that the preliminary hearing on their PRS violation be postponed until the pending criminal charges are resolved. Before COVID and in such instances, the Commission would not conduct a preliminary hearing on the violation until the person's pending criminal charges were resolved, during which time the individual would remain in custody. However, since COVID the Commission has been evaluating such cases for possible restoration to PRS without a preliminary hearing on the violation. Accordingly, in certain instances, instead of holding a person pending the resolution of their criminal charges and subsequent preliminary hearing on the PRS violation, the Commission exercises its discretion and chooses to release that person from custody. This is what occurred with regard to the following cases: 0145730, 0810526, 0982755, 1082396, 1249805, 1431606, 1564255, and 1625785.

^ When an individual that is out on PRS is arrested and brought back into custody and has pending criminal charges, that person can request that the preliminary hearing on their PRS violation be postponed until the pending criminal charges are resolved. Before COVID and in such instances, the Commission would not conduct a preliminary hearing on the violation until the person's pending criminal charges were resolved, during which time the individual would remain in custody. However, since COVID the Commission has been evaluating such cases for possible restoration to PRS without a preliminary hearing on the violation. Accordingly, in certain instances, instead of holding a person pending the resolution of their criminal charges and subsequent preliminary hearing on the PRS violation, the Commission exercises its discretion and chooses to release that person from custody. This is what occurred with regard to the following cases: 100919, 11094933, 1447570, 1548407, 1555978, 1615649, and 1625005.

^ When an individual that is out on PRS is arrested and brought back into custody and has pending criminal charges, that person can request that the preliminary hearing on their PRS violation be postponed until the pending criminal charges are resolved. Before COVID and in such instances, the Commission would not conduct a preliminary hearing on the violation until the person's pending criminal charges were resolved, during which time the individual would remain in custody. However, since COVID the Commission has been evaluating such cases for possible restoration to PRS without a preliminary hearing on the violation. Accordingly, in certain instances, instead of holding a person pending the resolution of their criminal charges and subsequent preliminary hearing on the PRS violation, the Commission exercises its discretion and chooses to release that person from custody.

These entries should be removed from the count of 3,500.

0770964 - coded as a reinstatement in error for an unknown reason.

1407731 - before being reinstated, this individual served a full term.

1528283 - the order to terminate supervision was due to serving a full sentence.

Confidential/Non-Public Information

^ When an individual that is out on PRS is arrested and brought back into custody and has pending criminal charges, that person can request that the preliminary hearing on their PRS violation be postponed until the pending criminal charges are resolved. Before COVID and in such instances, the Commission would not conduct a preliminary hearing on the violation until the person's pending criminal charges were resolved, during which time the individual would remain in custody. However, since COVID the Commission has been evaluating such cases for possible restoration to PRS without a preliminary hearing on the violation. Accordingly, in certain instances, instead of holding a person pending the resolution of their criminal charges and subsequent preliminary hearing on the PRS violation, the Commission exercises its discretion and chooses to release that person from custody.

These entries should be removed from the count of 3,500. OPUS # 1302797 was coded as a reinstatement in error for an unknown reason. OPUS # 1472604 served a full term before being reinstated.

^ When an individual that is out on PRS is arrested and brought back into custody and has pending criminal charges, that person can request that the preliminary hearing on their PRS violation be postponed until the pending criminal charges are resolved. Before COVID and in such instances, the Commission would not conduct a preliminary hearing on the violation until the person's pending criminal charges were resolved, during which time the individual would remain in custody. However, since COVID the Commission has been evaluating such cases for possible restoration to PRS without a preliminary hearing on the violation. Accordingly, in certain instances, instead of holding a person pending the resolution of their criminal charges and subsequent preliminary hearing on the PRS violation, the Commission exercises its discretion and chooses to release that person from custody.
