Human Trafficking 101

Competency-Based Training for CARF-Accredited Social Services

To book, contact Neeru Muker, Program Facilitator at:

nmuker@plea.bc.ca
236-886-1169

plea | Children of the Street

Frequently Asked Questions

Is this training delivered in-person or online?

Both options are available. In-person workshops can be held at your location. Virtual courses will be held via Zoom. Please see the minimum and maximum requirements above.

What can I do if I have less than 30 participants?

Training sessions are possible with fewer than 30 participants so long as you're able to pay the $1,800 that would be raised if 30 were present. If you have fewer than 30 participants and are not able to pay the full course fees, please contact us to discuss other solutions, such as a joint course with other agencies.

What does the competency-based component of the course look like and what do I need to do to pass the course successfully?

Following the training, participants will be asked to complete a quiz made up of 10 multiple choice questions. Only those who attend the course are eligible to take the quiz. You need to receive 80% to pass. For in-person settings, the quiz will be conducted at the conclusion of the training session and scored on the spot. Those who attended the training virtually will be sent an individual link to a digital quiz. Participants will be notified of their score immediately.

What happens if I don't pass the quiz?

If you don't receive an 80% score in your quiz, you can retake it. If you don't pass the quiz the second time, you will be required to attend the course again.

How long is my certificate valid for?

A digital certificate will be emailed to you within 30 days of completing the course and quiz successfully. The certificate is valid for 3 years. Under the CARF standards, Human Trafficking training must be taken at regular intervals. Therefore, after three years you will be required to participate in the course again and take the quiz to recertify.

My agency is not CARF-accredited. Can we book a Human Trafficking 101 course?

Of course! If your agency is accredited through a different accrediting body, looking to receive accreditation, or not accredited at all, you are welcome to book the course for your staff to receive valuable knowledge and tools to prevent human trafficking and support victims and survivors. However, if you are accredited through a different commission, it is your responsibility to confirm that this training meets its standards.

My agency is located outside BC's Lower Mainland, can you travel to my community?

Yes! We can travel to any community in BC. However, outside of the Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley, we request that the host agency cover our expenses related to travel and accommodation, etc. Contact us for a quote. Virtual workshops are also a great option for those outside of our main service delivery area.

Do you deliver Human Trafficking 101 in other provinces?

Yes! We can deliver Human Trafficking 101 to any community in Canada virtually. Please contact us to discuss this option.

More questions? Contact us or visit www.childrenofthestreet.com