JOB DESCRIPTIONS

DRUMMERS:

COSTUMES: The uniform consists of a pair of long black bibber pants, red and white custom made Snowflake Lane uniform jacket, a cape, shako hat with a gold snowflake & gold mylar plume, and multiple blinky lights to light your costume up. Your costume is trimmed with gold, black and red, with tinsel sparkling accessories. The most important part of your costume is your SMILE! Always be wearing a smile on your face. You are required to wear your own clean t-shirt with short or long sleeves, track pants or shorts, and long all black socks and all black shoes under or with your uniform every performance. Marching band shoes are great but any solid black shoe is good. Vinyl or leather is better than canvas so your feet don't get wet on rainy nights.

PERFORMANCE: A Snowflake Lane Drummer must be a well-balanced mix of musician and performer. First, drummers must have the ability to read, and quickly memorize basic music, which they are expected to do primarily outside of rehearsal. They must also be able to play IN TIME and IN BALANCE with a recording that will be playing during performances. Then, drummers must demonstrate coordination in learning and executing basic choreography to be performed while marching and dancing in the nightly parade while playing the written parts. For those with little marching experience, all drummers will be taught basic marching skills during rehearsals and everyone will be expected to practice the technique on their own time as well. Finally, and most importantly, a Snowflake Lane Drummer must be able to manage all of the above while using their expressions, eyes, smiles and performance energy to engage the audience, and bring a sense of fun, excitement and happiness to every audience, every night!

Snowstorm Drummers are a group of six eccentric performers who are dressed in custom white reflective snowboard gear. They run around with large steel mobile drums and entertain the crowd. They act "outside of the box" to make the Snowflake Lane experience unique and enjoyable for each audience member.

JINGLE BELLES (DANCERS):

COSTUMES: In a classic short, cute raincoat of red nylon with white snowflakes, these jackets were custom made for Snowflake Lane. Under the jacket you will wear a turtleneck top, leggings and gloves. The special 2 tone vinyl go-go boots with a 3" stack heel is in red and white. A matching belt cinches it all together. The costume is topped off with a bob wig in the same color tone of the performer's hair color to give a uniform look to the outfit and a cap in the same fabric as the jacket. The prop is a Snowflake Lane red and white umbrella specially designed and rigged for the dancer's use. On extremely windy nights, the manager may direct you to use a cane prop.

PERFORMANCE: The Jingle Belle performers will be wheeling out a circle platform and moving it onto the street where they will place it by their designated number. These platforms will be the stages throughout the Snowflake Lane performance area. The performers must be able to remember umbrella and staging choreography to music for the duration of the show. Dance, Drill team, Dance team or cheer would be the background needed to perform these skills for our show. Exuberant, energetic & graceful movements will be executed in time with the music. A happy and smiling face will need to be maintained for the entire performance from the moment you leave the Igloo until you return to the dressing room regardless of the weather; after all it is the most wonderful time of the year.

SNOW FLURRIES (COLOR GUARD):

COSTUMES: FEMALE: A cute short light blue dress with an elflike jagged bottom trimmed in white, adorned with an embroidered white snowflake on the hip. Topped with a white elflike capette trimmed with snowflakes and blinkies. Under this you will have a navy blue turtleneck & leggings, a navy blue beret with white snowflakes will top off the costume. Black short boots and flags will complete your look. The flags will be navy blue with white snowflakes.

MALE: Dressed in navy blue pants, and turtleneck you will have a shirt similar in style to the girls' dresses. Over your shoulders you will have a white capette with snowflake decorations and blinkies. The look will be topped off with a blue & white plush Santa hat with snowflake trim. Black short boots and flags will complete your look. The flags will be navy blue with white snowflakes.

PERFORMANCE: The Snow Flurries will be walking out onto the street with a six foot flag where they will perform. The street will be their stage throughout the Snowflake Lane performance area. Specific directions will be given to all performers to get to their location of performance. The performers must be able to remember flag and dance choreography to music for the duration of the show. Fall color guard, winter guard or Drum Corps International would be greatly beneficial to perform these skills for our show. Color guard experience, at any level, is preferred. Exuberant, energetic & graceful movements will be executed in time with the music. A happy & smiling face will need to be maintained for the entire performance from the moment you leave the Igloo until you return to the dressing room regardless of the weather; after all it is the most wonderful time of the year.

TECHS AND FLOAT PATROL:

You will be assigned and wear a military style marching band uniform or Tech Jacket (TBD depending on your position) that will be provided and fitted to you. You will be required to wear your own clean t-shirt and shorts or light weight pants under your uniform each day in order not to soil your uniform too quickly. You will need to provide your own clean black socks each night and a plain black shoe with no color markings on it at all. You will interact with children and dance around during the show. You are required to know the music, the order of the songs and to sing along to the music to create a fun, festive energy. Once your line of drummers/dancers /color guard performers are in position you can continue on your own, dancing in your assigned section. You may be asked to pose for photos with people and for information regarding SFL. You must always be courteous and polite. Help keep an open path during the show and never block traffic flow of the patrons trying to move down the sidewalk. You will also need to assist with rolling in the Jingle Belle Dancer rope with marks during the show. After the performers have finished their musical performance, you need to guide them back to the staging area while clearing a path. You must always be ready and waiting to lead the first drummer/dancer/color guard performer. The appropriate greeting to be used is "Happy Holidays"; you may respond and say "Merry Christmas", "Happy Hanukah" or "Happy Kwanza" if the patron says it to you first.

MAJORS/MAJORETTES:

COSTUMES: The uniform consists of a knee length pair of bibber black pants for the women and long black bibber pants for the men, red and white custom made Snowflake Lane uniform jacket, a cape, gloves, and shako hat with gold trim. A special color lipstick will be provided by GTP that must be worn by female performers for all performances. NO GLITTER is to be worn on the eyes or skin in any fashion.

PERFORMANCE: FUN, FUN, FUN! You are the pulse of the Snowflake Lane experience. It is up to you to create the excitement and maintain the party atmosphere before, during and after the drummer's show. You are required to know the music, the order of the songs and to sing along to the music to create a fun, festive energy. Engage with customers and hand out candy to kids. You may be assigned a costumed character that you will need to lead out to your section and return with to the staging area every performance. The costumed characters are not as mobile and cannot see as well as you can in their costume so you are their eyes and guidance. This means helping them if they need to ride on the escalator, elevator, navigate stairs &/or cross a street all the while having energy and being conscious of the patrons of the mall. Once your characters are in position you can continue on your own, dancing, playing the tambourine in time with the music, skipping, and handing out candy in your assigned section. You may be asked to pose for photos with people, and for information regarding SFL. You will also need to help with crowd control, clear paths for the performers and floats as they enter and exit the street. You must always be courteous and polite. UNMASKED CHARACTER COSTUMES:

SNOW PRINCESSES & SNOW QUEENS:

These costumes symbolizing Snowflake Lane fairy tale royalty are similar, consisting of a decorated crown like faux fur hat, a faux fur short jacket, turtle neck top, neck piece, necklaces, tights, warm sweat pants that can be worn on very cold days under your skirt, 3" stack heeled white vinyl go-go boots, a large floor length net petticoat skirt, a vinyl skirt over that and topped off with a nylon sparkle chiffon layer skirt, a waist cummerbund, gloves, and we can't forget the 'magic' wand. You are required to wear a clean baby doll shirt with short sleeves, bra and underwear under your costume for every performance. Nice special occasion make-up is required daily. A special color lipstick will be provided by GTP that must be worn by performer for all performances. NO GLITTER is to be worn on the eyes or skin in any fashion.

The ladies must never squat down to the ground for a few reasons;

One: You become a huge circle of skirt and no one can get by you on the street.

Two: The damage that can result from skirts touching the ground and someone walking on it especially on a wet night.

We mention this because it is very tempting to squat down to talk to little ones.

Your hair will have to be in a high ponytail. You will wear 3" stack heel purple vinyl go-go boots. UNMASKED CHARACTER PERFORMANCE: Your job is to guide your partner, interact with the children, dance around, smile, help keep the paths clear, keep the crowds in the viewing areas while spreading cheer and a magnificent holiday spirit! You may be assigned a costumed character that you will need to lead out to your section and return with to the staging area every performance. The costumed characters are not as mobile and cannot see as well as you can in their costume so you are their eyes and guidance. This means helping them if they need to ride on the escalator, elevator, navigate stairs &/or cross a street all the while having energy and being conscious of the patrons of the mall. You are encouraged to speak to the patrons. Photos with patrons will occupy the majority of your time as will conversations with children. All performers will need to have a very pleasant smile and warmth to them so that they are approachable and sweet. You may be assigned a masked character that you will need to guide to and from your section on the street.

You may be assigned to perform on a parade float.

Since the costumed characters do not speak, it is important to "keep an eye" on your character and try to keep them safe & happy. They are often surrounded by kids and adults trying to get pictures and sometimes they need to be guided to a better place. Think of it as a buddy system. You should report any inappropriate activity to a captain or staff member immediately.

MASKED CHARACTERS:

COSTUMES: REINDEERS, PENGUINS, POLAR BEARS, MICE & FROSTYS:

Although each costume looks different they all have basically the same parts consisting of a "Disney-like" character head, a full fun fur jumpsuit body, flat work boots or shoes, spats, mittens, and accessories such as scarves, hats, vests etc. (You are required to wear clean socks, T-Shirt, shorts/leggings or light weight PJ pants under your costume for every performance.) Women: your hair needs to be neatly tied back so that it stays off your face when you place your headpiece on. You can also use a bandana or headband as provided. The Characters' costumes are quite warm and you will sweat, so you will need to wear clean shirts under your costumes to avoid soiling your character costume. You do have to be comfortable with wearing a character head for the duration of the performance.

PERFORMANCE: Your job is to be fun and energetic without words. These costumed characters do not speak. Your costume makes you bigger than life and all your movements must be bigger than life as well. You dress the street with your presence. You will be assigned a performer who is not in a character head. The costumed characters are not as mobile and cannot see as well in their costumes, so the assigned performer is your eyes and guidance. This means they will be helping you if you need to ride on the escalator, elevator, navigate stairs &/or cross a street all the while having energy and being conscious of the patrons of the mall. Your helper will bring you to your section and then re-join you at the end of the performance to assist you back to the staging area. You must always be courteous and polite. Try not to block traffic flow of the patrons trying to move down the sidewalk. Everyone wants to take pictures with you, and yes, you have to smile too as sometimes the flash of the camera can catch a glimpse of your face through the character's eyes or mouth in the photos. You will need to stroll, skip, and pose in an animated cartoon like fashion as directed. On really wet nights, you will need to stay undercover or use an umbrella (as directed by supervisor) as not to damage your mascot heads. You have limited sight lines in the costume and have to turn carefully. Be aware of very small children right behind you or attached to your leg. Since the costumed characters do not speak, your partner will "keep an eye" on you and try to keep you safe & happy. Think of it as a buddy system. You should report any inappropriate activity to your buddy with the special animated signal.

Everyone loves the Holiday characters; they lift everyone's spirit by their sheer presence and the more animated you can be, the more memorable you will make the experience for the audience.

You may be assigned to perform on a parade float.

ALL:

Some of you will be selected to be on the floats.

Umbrellas provided to performers on rainy nights.
