(619) 395-3513

John Lomoro is a Certified Public Accountant with over 25 years of experience. He has held senior financial positions in such diverse industries as SaaS/Software, manufacturing, pharma, and high tech. John's career has included roles within a Big Four accounting firm and stints working with rapidly- growing small- to medium-sized companies as well as large multi-billion-dollar companies. Additionally, he has international operations experience in North America, Europe, the Middle East, and Asia, and he has collaborated with C-level personnel on strategic and operational goals.

John has gained valuable executive experience serving both public (SEC reporting) and private (VC- and PE-backed) companies. In his most recent role, he played a key role in reducing the reporting timeline by five days for the global consolidation of nine entities located on three continents. He also has extensive experience in managing a company's financial, planning and analysis (i.e. budgeting/forecasting/KPI reporting), risk management, and treasury operations. Furthermore, has developed and improved accounting system processes to streamline workflow and increase efficiency.

His varied strengths include experience interpreting financial results for the executive team and board of directors, leading accounting and financial teams, and scaling financial operations to align with a company's growth.
