Our Care360 COVID-19 disease management platform is CDC compliant and specifically designed for businesses. We know how challenging the process of returning to work is for employers and employees.

In California, the recent passing of AB 685 has made it mandatory for employers to notify employees, and any visitor to their worksite, that they may have been exposed to COVID-19, within one business day. We imagine other states will follow.

Check out our FAQ on What is AB 685

The operational implications of this bill can be taxing, but we have a solution.

Care360 offers an easy way to report symptoms and to contact trace, all while staying completely anonymous. It is a system backed by science and provides the best technology to help increase transparency between employees and employers, and to ultimately keep everyone safe.

Learn more about our unique, scientific approach to workplace reopening here.

We at CareValidate developed the Care360 Digital Health Platform to help address the operations and uncertainty around COVID-19 screening, tracing, and testing, building trust between employees and employers. We can help keep your team healthy in uncharted waters.

If you would like to connect with us about using our technology or have any questions please email, check out our website, or download our app for iOS and Android.