We are seeking the expertise of communities on anti-racism and healthcare for youth!

Ontario Health Teams in the Northeast of Ontario with the NOSM University are developing anti-racism training for care providers in the Northeast of Ontario who work with youth.

What's involved?
Participate in a one-hour virtual group discussion with other community members where you will discuss and share your views on racism in health care for young people in your region.

When
To take place the during the months of February and March of this year (2025). You can choose to attend discussions in English, or French or for those that identify as Black, of colour or Indigenous only.

You can email, Kirsty Bourret, lead researcher representing NOSM and midwife to sign up for the group discussion. bourretk@mcmaster.ca

