

Indian University Hosts English Faculty Fulbrighter

BOCA RATON, Fla. (Dec. 6, 2017) – Don Adams, Ph.D., a professor in the Department of English, has been researching Indian philosophy and theology while affiliated with Christ University in Bangalore as a U.S. Fulbright Scholar in India.

He recently led a discussion at the English Department of the university in October concerning using popular culture in the literature classroom. The discussion was a part of a one day seminar entitled “Keeping Pace with 21st Century Trends in English Language and Literature.”

In November, he gave a talk entitled “Whatever Is, Is Wrong: Alternative Realisms” at a conference in northeastern India.

His future plans involve giving a talk at a conference organized by the theological-philosophical institute allied with Christ University next month.
