

A Contra Costa County Equity Initiative

An initiative championed by Superintendent of Schools, Karen Sakata

Join us...

Please join us for a screening of the film "And Then They Came for Us" (2017), by social justice filmmaker Abby Ginzberg, featuring actor George Takei, who was interned as a child in an American camp for Japanese American citizens. The film warns that building walls and banning Muslims echo the World War II disaster of incarcerating innocent Japanese Americans.

Directed by Abby Ginzberg and Ken Schneider

The screening will be followed by a Panel Discussion.

Panelists include:

- Abby Ginzberg, director
- Karen Korematsu, founder & executive director of the Fred T. Korematsu Institute
- Satsuki Ina, psychotherapist & Professor Emeritus, California State University Sacramento
- Zahra Billoo, Executive Director, SF Bay Area Council on American-Islamic Relations

Moderated by:

Pamela Comfort, Ed.D., Deputy Superintendent, CCCOE

The Contra Costa County Office of Education is proud to sponsor the year-long initiative on equity and diversity entitled:

Allies & Advocates

The initiative will feature several events and activities throughout the school year including four Equity Leadership Retreats designed to support educational leaders to develop their own capacity to become effective champions of equity.
