Join us as we welcome Mark Silk to BSBI for three very timely lectures. After receiving his Ph.D. in history from Harvard University, Silk edited the Boston Review and spent 10 years as a reporter, editorial writer, and columnist for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. In 1996 he became the founding director of the Leonard E. Greenberg Center for the Study of Religion in Public Life at Trinity College in Hartford, where he is also Professor of Religion in Public Life. He is the author of Spiritual Politics: Religion and America Since World War II, Unsecular Media: Making News of Religion in America, and (with Andrew Walsh) One Nation, Divisible: How Regional Religious Differences Shape American Politics. He edits the Center’s on-line magazine, Religion in the News, and his column, Spiritual Politics, is a feature of the Religion News Service, where he is a senior columnist and contributing editor. In 2014 he became chair of the Editorial Advisory Board of the Connecticut Jewish Ledger.
