About the Workshop & Public Talk

Imam Jamal Rahman, Rabbi Ted Falcon, and Pastor Dave Brown, the Pacific Northwest Interfaith Amigos, will offer an afternoon workshop and an evening talk focusing on the nature and purpose of effective interfaith dialogue. They will share how their respective faith traditions support as well as hinder that dialogue. Reaching more deeply into those very traditions, they share how spirituality provides a ground for healing.

Afternoon workshop, Parish Hall, 4:00-5:30pm

“Creating an Effective Foundation for Interfaith Dialogue”

The Pacific Northwest Interfaith Amigos guide participants in developing a foundation for truly effective communication and purposeful collaboration. In this workshop, participants are invited to experience how to move beyond polarization and stereotyping to more authentically meet the other.

Evening presentation in the Nave, 7:00-8:30pm

“Interfaith Dialogue for Challenging Times”

The Pacific Northwest Interfaith Amigos share some of the promises as well as the problems related to developing an interfaith dialogue that can support collaborative action in our world. With warmth, humor, and wisdom, these three teachers guide an interfaith process that opens us to spiritual treasures which support healing and wholeness.

Following each program, there will be a signing of the Interfaith Amigos’ newest book,
Finding Peace Through Spiritual Practice

About the Interfaith Amigos

Rabbi Ted Falcon, PhD, spiritual guide, author, teacher and therapist, has taught Jewish traditions of Kabbalah, meditation and spirituality since the 1970s and founded and served meditative synagogues in Los Angeles and the Seattle area. The author of several books, he has a private spiritual counseling practice, seeing people in his Seattle office as well as via Skype.

Imam Jamal Rahman is co-founder and Muslim Sufi Minister at Interfaith Community Sanctuary in Seattle and adjunct faculty at Seattle University. Originally from Bangladesh, he has a passion for interfaith work and travels often, teaching classes, workshops and retreats locally, nationally and internationally. He is available for interfaith weddings and ceremonies and, like Rabbi Ted, has penned several books, and has a private spiritual counseling practice.

Pastor Dave Brown of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, a growing, progressive community in Tacoma, is the innovator of award-winning Blues Vespers, a Blues concert with poetry and reflection. He leads pilgrimages to Iona, Scotland, and organized four Habitat builds in Guatemala. A graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, he served as staff for the National Council of Churches Committee on Public Education and Literacy.

Pastor Don Mackenzie, one of the original Interfaith Amigos, has authored books with Rabbi Ted and Imam Jamal and continues to join them when they are traveling. Pastor Don moved from Seattle to Minneapolis in 2013, so for many local programs Pastor Dave Brown stands in for Don and becomes one of the Pacific Northwest Interfaith Amigos.

With their willingness to openly address the usual taboos of interfaith dialogue—the “awkward” parts of each tradition—the Interfaith Amigos create authentic conversation, between themselves and with their audiences, giving people an opportunity to step more fully into the rich promise of the interfaith experience. Their work is dedicated to supporting more effective interfaith dialogue that can bring greater collaboration on the major social and economic issues of our time and focus energies toward furthering greater peace and understanding.

About The Center at St. Andrew’s

An outreach and ministry of St. Andrew’s Episcopal Church, The Center offers a variety of workshops, quiet days, classes and other learning opportunities, as well as special events and celebrations. Centering Prayer teaching and practice are a regular part of The Center. Because humans are part of many intersecting circles and because each individual is an important element in the whole, The Center seeks to help human beings grow into the fully alive individuals they were created to be and to take their places, to find their ministries, and to offer their service in the life of the faith community and the human family. We are open to partnerships with other organizations and faiths who share these goals. All offerings at The Center are open to everyone and all are welcome!
