PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Heritage Greece Program is an unforgettable educational and cultural program designed to connect Greek American students of college age with their Hellenic heritage.

The Program was developed by the National Hellenic Society (NHS) as part of its mission to celebrate and preserve Hellenic heritage in the United States. The Heritage Greece Program is hosted by The American College of Greece (ACG), which is located on a modern, safe, and beautiful 65-acre campus in the outskirts of Athens. It was home to the United States Olympic team during the 2004 Olympics.

The Program is a gift from the NHS to American students of Hellenic descent, and it comprises of tailor-made educational and cultural activities that make for an intense, immersive experience.

These activities include insider's tours of important museums, visits to beautiful locales, tours of significant archaeological and historical sites, visits to religious sites and monuments of the Byzantine period, and private Greek dancing and cooking classes. They are combined with seminars, excursions, and activities with ACG students that offer a unique experience of Greece.

Participating students are hosted at ACG's modern residence facilities, located within walking distance from campus in the Athens suburb of Aghia Paraskevi. The campus is located on the foothills of Mt. Hymettus, six miles from the city center.

The Heritage Greece Program experience does not stop with this visit to Greece, but continues for a lifetime. The NHS will continue to play a role in the lives of Heritage Greece alumni through programs that will help them become ambassadors of our heritage and will guide them in the development of their professional careers through the extensive and growing Heritage Greece Alumni Network.
