Gary and Sandy Holt reside in the small, rural town of Curwensville in Clearfield County. Their address is 187 Anderson Road, Curwensville, PA. Their home school district is Curwensville Area School District. They are a Caucasian family. The foster parents do not have children of their own, but have been providing foster care to youth in need for over five years.

The foster mother, Sandy, is a homemaker, and part-time employee at the Curwensville elementary school. During the summer months, she operates the family greenhouses that are on the couple's property. In her free time, Sandy enjoys gardening, cooking, baking, playing card and board games and attending local community events, fairs and picnics. Gary, the foster father, owns and operates his own landscaping service and also helps out working the couple's greenhouses. In his free-time, Gary enjoys working on various home improvement projects, woodworking, fishing, and attending local community events, fairs and picnics. Gary and Sandy also enjoy offering respite opportunity to children in foster care or group home settings, especially around the holidays. The family is currently open for both foster and adoptive placements and would prefer to adopt females. They are willing to consider any age, but prefer the ages of 3 to 14.
