

About PCDI

The Princeton Child Development Institute

Pioneering Autism Intervention and Research for over 47 years

PCDI, founded in 1970, is a private, non-profit program offering a broad spectrum of science-based services to children, youths, and adults with autism. The Institute not only provides quality treatment, education, professional training and mentoring in New Jersey, but through its research, pioneered comprehensive intervention models that are used nationally and internationally for the benefit of persons with autism. These programs teach young children to talk, play with siblings and friends, and read and write. Adolescents continue academic and work-study programs while learning to participate in their homes and communities. Adults perfect skills that allow them to maintain jobs and achieve greater levels of independence. Because autism knows no national or cultural boundaries, PCDI shares its pioneering programs, technology, and research with professionals in the US and abroad so that all people who struggle with autism may benefit.

What is CitySeek 2017?

CitySeek is a team-based scavenger hunt for adults through the Center City section of Philadelphia. You and your team of 4 to 8 members will earn points as you complete various tasks and explore the streets of Philly. These tasks will take place in various museums, historic sites, shops, restaurants and bars. Along the way, you will have time to enjoy some great Philly foods and a beverage or two. Here's how it will work. All teams will be required to have smart phones with the ability to email photos and post to Facebook. Each team will be given a task booklet that will list tasks and their point values. You will receive points for completing each task.

Sample tasks:

- What is the name of the statue in the lobby of the Franklin Institute?
- Challenge another team in a game of Corn Hole at the Philly Beer Garden.
- Take a photo of team with a bride wearing a wedding dress.

At 5:00 pm we all meet back at the 23rd St. Armory for the happy hour rewards ceremony. Prizes will be awarded to the team with the most points. Bonus points awarded to teams with great spirit (ex. team costumes). There will also be plenty of great door prizes and giveaways.
