Devotional Thought:

John 14:15 If you love me, keep my commands. Warner family dinner discussions are all about the events of the day. I love living life with a glimpse into two 7-year-olds' and 5 year-old's life! One of our most recent conversations had to do with the commutative property in math (first grade!!). After doing a quick Google search to verify our son was correct, we understood that commutative property is simply a way to say numbers can be moved around to mean the same thing ( $1+3 = 3+1$ ). Mind blowing for a 7 year old!! Commutative property applied to John 14:15 would read this way: You will keep my commandments if you love me. On the MSHS campus we began the year focusing on Love God and Love Others. By doing these two things we can follow the whole of God's commandments and desires for our lives. So, how are you doing? Are you keeping God's commandments and in so doing showing that you love Him?

In Christ, Mr. Warner, MSHS Principal

"Fabulous Five" As Reported By RCS Teachers:

1. Mr. Hinton and Mrs. Neal report: The Christian Ministry Team had a great fundraising event, a fun time for all who attended. The Lord blessed the team in raising $7,200 toward the Navajo Nation Mission Trip this Spring! Especially inspiring was how each missions team member brought between 2-4 RCHS friends to volunteer to spend their Saturday working together at various service projects without knowing what they would be doing in advance!. 2. Mr. Warner reports: JV Boys Soccer team was highlighted last week when playing Lick Wilmerding. Our boys fought hard and as time expired they turned a 0-0 tie into a 1-0 victory for RCS!. Click Here

3. Mrs. Haserot reports: Seeing students get excited about Science learning about earthworms! #scienceisfun. Click Here

4. Miss Sierra reports: In Geometry 4 conditional statements written with Bible verses. Click Here

5. Mr. Sanchez reports: I had a student in Bible ask, "What do I need to do to ask Jesus into my heart."

The 5th Annual Girls Conference – Redwood Chapel

- In a world that values freedom, how many of us are TRULY free?
- How many of us are just living a morally good life, but are not being transformed by the TRUTH of God's Word?
- This year at the girls conference we will take a look at what it means to die to ourselves and how that will truly set us FREE.

Parent Seminar Presented by TEEN ESTEEM receive hands on help for today's digital family.

Date: Friday; September 30 / Time: 7:00pm

Cost: Ticket Paid For By ILLUMINATE THE BAY
