2017-18 Theme: Know God

September Theme Verse:
Psalm 86:11

September 6, 2017

Teach me your way, O Lord, that I may walk in your truth; unite my heart to fear your name.

Devotional

Psalm 86:11 declares, “Teach me your way, O LORD, that I may walk in your truth; unite my heart to fear your name.” It is often said that Jesus is the master teacher and He spent His earthly ministry pointing people back to what the Scriptures actually said rather than the tradition of the Law that was being taught. What Jesus is modeling for all believers of all time is that God's Word is truth. We are blessed today to have the entire canon of Scripture, bound together in one volume that we can pick up daily and read. Scripture is the record of God's story unfolding in human history. To learn God's way, all we have to do is read His word.

In Christ,
Al Hearne II, M.Div, M. Ed.

Mr. Hearne's Recommended Resources:

School is now in full swing. Teachers are teaching, students are learning!!! This week I've selected two resources to give parents a few ideas and strategies to help establish positives routines to back up what is happening at school.

First is an article about having, “School Mornings Without the Stress” and second, “Strategies to Make Homework Go More Smoothly.” Our third resource, as always, is the Axis Cultural Translator.

Fabulous Five

Mr. Kiefer's 7th Grade Bible class did a FABULOUS job in their "How to Treat Others" presentations.

From Mrs. Seganish: Chemistry classes were given 26 of the first elements discovered (with limited information about each) and were challenged to sort them into categories based on that information. Several groups came up with charts that looked very similar to the first periodic table ever made!

"Why did my TK students say, 'Today is the best day ever!' and squeal with delightful "Oohs and Aahs?" Because they used their watercolor paints for the first time!" ~Mrs. Conley

Mrs. Haserot's second grade students are having a great time working in groups using math manipulatives such as pattern blocks, to learn about shapes, patterns, and spatial reasoning.

In a STEM activity, Mr. Wilcox's 8th graders were challenged to find the volume of different objects using different methods. One included finding the volume of the classroom itself!
