The Legendary Miss Lena Horne and Poems in the Attic

"Weatherford (author) and Zunon (ilust.) vibrantly capture the setbacks and triumphs of African-American Lena Horn tracing her rise from a Brooklyn childhood to a singer and actress who faces persistent racism." — PUBLISHERS WEEKLY STARRED REVIEW

"A memorable life dedicated to music and civil rights, presented with commensurate style" — KIRKUS REVIEWS STARRED REVIEW

"During a visit to Grandma's, a seven year old girl discovers a stash of 'Poems in the Attic' written by her mother as a child. This collection captures the experience of a military childhood with grateful sophistication. Rendered in acrylic, oil, and collage, Zunon's warm, vibrant illustrations complement the text perfectly."

— SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL

Liz Zunon was born in Albany, N.Y. and spent her childhood in West Africa. She graduated with a fine Arts degree from Rhode Island School of Design. She has illustrated numerous books for children.
