Willy-Nilly November

As the cold winds of November sweep away the magical spell of fall colors and warmth of summer-like days, old man winter is fighting for its rite of passage to move into the Saluda Mountains. Mountain views are visible through windows opened through forest tress left naked by fallen leaves and swept clean by November rain and winds. With the bare beauty of November and its mountain shadows, gray skies, and withered stalks of summer's glory, a peaceful tranquility rests over the mountains as Saludians await the first frost and winter snow.

Summer homes will fill with holiday guests for Thanksgiving and the Saluda Tailgate Market will celebrate the end of the season with its Holiday Market. The Saluda Methodist Church will host its annual "Turkey Dinner" and downtown shops and restaurants will prepare for holiday shoppers and guests.

November winds bring change to the mountains as they blow back and forth fighting back old man winter and the smell of wood smoke begins to spew from mountain home chimneys. Hummingbirds have fled south and migrating birds are plentiful and it's time to put out back yard bird feeders again.

"There is a time for every season" and November is a time for remembrance of those who have served our country and reflection of the past season. As a stillness replaces the rush of a busy summer and fall season, Saludians show gratitude and thankfulness for being spared from Mother Nature's wrath of storms and give to, and share with, those who have been less fortunate.

Even though the weather can be "willy-nilly" in November, Saludians will delight in all seasons making the best of whatever is in store.

What's Happening at the Purple Onion in November

Winter Hours

Sunday, November 5 marks the official end of daylight savings time and Sunday brunch at the Purple Onion for 2017. Additionally, our kitchen will close at 8 PM on Monday and Tuesday nights. We will reopen for Sunday brunch and Wednesdays the first week of May.

Oyster & Pint Night

Sunny summer days may be gone and the beautiful clear colorful days of autumn waning, but November brings its own gifts. Cozy fires, comfort food and OYSTERS! Every Monday and Tuesday we feature oysters on the half shell, raw or roasted and $3 pints.

David Childers & the Serpents

November 19 @ 7 PM

The Purple Onion is pleased to welcome back David Childers and the Serpents on Sunday, November 19 at 7 PM. Admission is $12 per person in advance, $15 at the door and seating will be limited. The performance begins at 7 PM. The doors open at 5 PM. Pizza, salads and appetizers will be available from 5 PM until 6:45 with beverages and desserts available during the show. Reservations can be made online or by calling the restaurant at 828-749-1179.

Singer-songwriter David Childers is the proverbial study in contradictions. A resident of Mount Holly, North Carolina, he's a former high-school football player with the aw-shucks demeanor of a good ol' Southern boy. But he's also a well-read poet and painter who cites Chaucer and Kerouac as influences, fell in love with folk as a teen, listens to jazz and opera, and fed his family by practicing law before turning in his license to concentrate on his creative passions.

The legal profession's loss is certainly the music world's gain. Childers' new album, Run Skeleton Run, released in May 2017 on Ramseur Records, is filled with the kinds of songs that have made him a favorite of fans and fellow artists including neighbors the Avett Brothers. Scott Avett contributes to four tracks, and Avett's bassist Bob Crawford co-executive-produced the effort with label head Dolph Ramseur. (Crawford and Childers, both history buffs, have recorded and performed together in the Overmountain Men).

In fact, it was Crawford who kick-started this album, Childers' sixth solo effort, by suggesting he reunite with Don Dixon (R.E.M., the Smithereens), who produced Crawford's favorite Childers album, Room 23 (done with his band the Modern Don Juans). Crawford also suggested tracking at Mitch Easter's Fidelitorium Recordings.

"I've made records in my living room and been perfectly happy with it. But I think ol' Bob wanted to give it one more shot," Childers says. "It's kind of like the Wild Bunch at the end of the movie, on their last train robbery." Not that he's suggesting this is his "last train robbery." Not with songs as rich as these. Sounding like literature and playing like little movies — several are under three minutes long — they're populated by sailors, hermits, lovers and killers, facing off against fate, skeletons, good, evil, or simply the trials of everyday existence. Lust, virtue, guilt, innocence; alienation, desperation, sorrow, gratitude ... he examines these conditions with such precision — combined with music that draws on folk, rock, rockabilly, country and Cajun influences — he doesn't need lengthy exposition.

Three singers---soprano Amanda Horton, tenor John Kaneklides, and baritone Jonathan Ross--- will join pianist Daniel Weiser in this show highlighting scenes from famous operas by Verdi, Puccini, and Donizetti as well as well-known Neoplatonic songs such as "O Sole Mio." All the singers have performed around the country. Horton and Ross have an incredible chemistry that has been on display in two previous fundraisers at the Orchard Inn ("Live at the USO" and "A Night in Vienna") while tenor Kaneklides was praised by Opera News as: "the very picture of youthful optimism and potential." Dr. Weiser, founder and Artistic Director of AmiciMusic, has played in over 20 countries. He will give short talks at the concert about each composer, helping to break down the barriers between performers and audience and establishing a more informal and relaxed atmosphere.

"Daniel Weiser and Marc and Marianne Blazar of the Orchard Inn have been staunch supporters of the fundraising efforts to purchase and operate the Saluda Historic Depot & Museum since its beginning in 2015," says chair of the Saluda Historic Depot, Judy Ward. "Their generosity stretches way beyond just fundraising by offering a cultural event that rivals anything else in western NC to the citizens of Saluda and Polk County. We hope many citizens will be able to take advantage of this unique experience in Saluda," says Judy.

Jim Carson AIS Workshop: Painting the Interior

January 18-20, 2018 Thursday-Saturday

Medium: Oil and/or Acrylic
Painting interiors has always been a fundamental part of Impressionist painting, and particularly contemporary Impressionist painting. Capturing the light, whether natural light through a window or door, or artificial light from a lamp or other inside lighting. The walls, furniture, floors and flowers are simply a vehicle for the light to "show off". Painting these scenes can be both fun and can result in very cozy paintings. As always, in this workshop, we will learn to simplify the shapes and design of an interior scene in order to paint it in a fresh and spontaneous manner.

The workshop will be held in Jim's studio, above the Saluda Grade Café, 40 E. Main St., in Saluda, N.C. There will be lots of one on one easel time, a demonstration by Jim on Thursday, and a general critique of the day's work at the end of each day. The workshop is open to all levels, from beginners to advanced. A list of brushes, etc. will be furnished after registration.

Jim is a member of Plein Air Painters of the Southeast (PAPSE), an associate member of Oil Painters of America, and a Signature Member of The American Impressionist Society.

For more information, visit the "news/ workshop" link at jimcarson.net, email jimcarson151@gmail.com or call 828-749-3702.

Remembering E.M. Patterson, Engineer of Helper Train on Saluda Grade Saluda Train Tales November 17, 2017

The old steam engine helper is gone from Saluda Mountain. Mr. E. M.

Patterson, who pushed the trains from Melrose to Saluda, a distance of three miles, for 47 years, retired at the age of 70 years. He only lived two years after he retired. Mr. Patterson went to work for the railroad when he was almost 14 years old as a water boy. He pulled a passenger train from Asheville to Salisbury and from Asheville to Spartanburg before coming on the helper at Saluda.

Mr. Patterson is best known for being the grandfather of actor Pat Hingle whose acting career began at Saluda School with a part in a school play. He went on to appear on Broadway in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, on TV in Gunsmoke, The Andy Griffith Show, The Fugitive, The Twilight Zone and countless others, and in over 100 movies, including Splendor in the Grass, Norma Rae, Hang 'Em High, and all four of the 1990s-era Batman films.

"I remember Mrs. Patterson having some of his friends to come over to their house one night. She said Mr. Patterson had been working for the railroad 50 years that day and she invited us over. When we got there Mr. Patterson said, "I am glad you all came over. I have been working on the railroad 50 years today. I'm so glad you all came today."

"Mr. Patterson was a great lover of music. He would go to a lot of our singing conventions, and would often pay the expenses of a good quartet to get them to come to our singings. He loved to hear the Carolina Ladies Quartet of Greenville, SC sing. He did not sing but it put life into a singing just to see him there; he enjoyed it so much," quoted from "50 Years Ago in Saluda," by Herbert E Pace.

Christina Thompson Boies and Katherine Rohling Harrell, granddaughters of Mr. Patterson will tell stories about their grandfather, E. M. Patterson, and his career as the engineer of the Helper Train on the Saluda Grade. Christina and Katherine are from Columbia, SC

Saluda Train Tales is a free monthly event to educate the community in the importance of Saluda's railroad history and the Saluda Grade. The ornament we have chosen this year is the Entwined Celtic Heart, cast in pewter by artist Cynthia Webb. Finished with a matte sheen, this heart

Children's Christmas Workshop

Saturday,
December
9, 2017
9:30am-
1:00pm
Saluda Fire Department
Free For Kids Five And Up

The Workshop Helpers want to invite Saluda's children five and up to the workshop again this year so we can teach, inspire, and encourage them through creativity. The Workshop offers personal instruction of art projects related to Christmas in the form of ornaments and gifts. The kids get to practice their artistic ability, imagination, patience, cooperation and gratitude through art. We create projects using lots of different mediums, such as recycled products, beading, felting, food gifts, nature inspired gifts, origami, and much more. They will take home projects that will be cherished for years to come.

They aren't the only ones who benefit though...we, the adults, love to share with the kids who come. It's a wonderful experience for everyone. If you'd like to be a helper, just call Laura Fields at 828-749-4521. I encourage creative and kid-loving people (notice I didn't say women) to join us. I wouldn't be able to pull this project off without my volunteers, and for them, I am very grateful. Please join us if you'd like to be a part of something very special.

Parents, please don't bring children under five as the projects are challenging. No food or drink allowed. No unattended children and parents are allowed on art floor. We provide a special place just for you where you can do a project of your own or watch the kids without being right beside them.

See You There!

Cookbook Donation

A special thank you to Holly Wilkes for donating a vintage Saluda cookbook after we shared the story from Our State Magazine about the need for cookbooks. (See last month's Saluda Lifestyles.) We will send this book to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro's (UNCG) Rare Books in the Martha Blakeney Hodges Special Collections and University Archives at UNCG's Jackson Library. Here's the full story in Our State Magazine: <https://www.ourstate.com/a-collection-of-cookbooks-finds-its-home-at-uncg/> It's not too late to donate if you have a cookbook from Saluda or Polk County. Just drop it off at City Hall.

Benefit for Tryon Historical Museum with Emile Pandolfi – Nov. 11

On Saturday evening, November 11, the Tryon Historical Museum will present An Evening with Pandolfi at Tryon Fine Arts Center. Emile Pandolfi has agreed to return to Tryon for this performance as a benefit for the Museum.

The Tryon Historical Museum, located at 26 Maple Street in the heart of Tryon, was formed in order to Tell Tryon's Story. The museum shares tidbits of Tryon's history through photographs and rotating exhibits about the town's founding fathers and its famous visitors who stepped off the train for fresh air and decided to stay. It is the story of equestrians, artists, writers, and musicians who fell in love with the glorious mountain views, the refreshing air, and the friendly community spirit that has always embraced newcomers.

After a short incubation period and with guidance and encouragement from Tryon Downtown Development Association and the Small Town Main Street program, Tryon Historical Museum received its 501(c) 3 status and opened its doors to the public as a free museum in September 2015, just two years ago.

Because of his talent and creativity, as well as his commitment to community, Emile Pandolfi is a perfect fit for this event. He ranks among America's most popular piano artists with almost thirty recordings. In addition to his performances of Classical Music, Pandolfi is primarily known for applying a classical technique to Broadway hits and popular standards. He is also known for infusing his concerts with laughter and for romancing his audiences.

Pandolfi is actively involved with charity organizations, performing in benefit concerts for Hospice, women's shelters, the United Way, and various efforts for disaster relief. He most recently appeared at Tryon Fine Arts Center as a benefit for Parkinson's.

Please join us for An Evening with Pandolfi on Saturday, November 11, at 7:00 p.m. at Tryon Fine Arts Center, with a Gala Reception in the lobby following the performance. Tickets are $45.00 and may be purchased through www.tryonarts.org or by calling the box office at 828 859-8322. For additional information, call Linda Lee Reynolds at 828 859-2744.

If you cannot attend but would like to make a donation to the museum, the address is Tryon Historical Museum, P.O. Box 132, Tryon, NC 28782.

Walking On the Road

If you have a car and travel the roads around Saluda, and pass either an old friend or a stranger and stop to offer him a lift - they, every one, respond the same. You say, "Do you want a ride?" and they say "Don't care if I do." You don't stop for females unless you have a female in your own car. Henry Thompson was a nice man. He was Homer and George and John's daddy. He drove a fine mare mule and a top notch one horse wagon with a good high seat on it. He was on the road more often than others, but when you met him in his wagon he always had time to stop and "chat" a little.

One day we met him on the road and my Daddy "whoaed 'ole Joe, and Henry "whoaed" his mule, and they visited across the wheels. My Daddy mentioned how good Henry looked for their ages, and this is what he told my Daddy about the Thompson men, "Charlie," he said, "us Thompsons is sorta' like a hickory nut. We get some age on us and then sort of swivel up, and then I God we're here to stay!" I could say "amen" to that.

There were a lot of things that happened to us while we lived in the shack on Huckleberry Ridge, and I'm sure I'll come back to something from up there before we're through. When we moved to our new summer house down next to Case's Branch, with running water by gravity and a shower house and kitchen, our world started to change. Mr. Goforth, over the winter, tore down the old shack, improved Jackie Thompson's old house, built a cow barn and some other good things. My big sister, Libba, was becoming a young lady. She had lots of young friends that visited from our neighborhood at home, and some of her friends from Converse College. I liked them all. They were wonderful to me. The biggest drawback to all of this was that on rainy days they liked to play bridge. Nine times out of ten, the group there was three, and they dragged little 'ole Charlie boy up from his nap in his little bed to be "the fourth" at bridge. I couldn't stand it. But "set back," that was different. "Set back" was a game for boys. Our Daddy had a nice man that worked on the Spartanburg paper. He was a good reporter, and his name was A.G. Kenney. He had a wife and two sons -- one my age, and one a little younger. He was a World War I veteran, and his boys called him "Sarge." Our Daddy let them use the shack on Huckleberry Ridge for their vacation sometimes, and I went along with them. Sarge played catch with us at any time. He took us fishing, but after dark when supper was done, he was a "set back" man - Hi-low, Jack, and the game. Four, five, or six of us would play "set back" on the shack porch 'till moth wings covered the table, and we played on 'till bedtime.

When the Keeney's were all safe in bed at the shack, in the black of the night and the stillness was settled into the house, the Keeney's raised their chant, "Goodnight Sarge, Goodnight Rob, Goodnight Mamma, 'night Ross, 'night Rob - the good night cries cruised the old house with love, and then came three or four good nights Charlie, and I felt loved and wonderful, and wondered why I didn't do better at "set back."

One night when the weather got bad and we played "set back" on the big front porch at the shack, the lamp almost blew over. We all were shaken and asked Sarge what to do if the house caught fire. He told us all, "If this house catches fire, you just get your hat and call the dog."
