Intended for UUs in the greater CA Bay Area, this lively, interactive workshop is designed to help UUs become more aware of economic and social class distinctions and how they impact society as a whole, play out in our congregations, and affect the quality of our social justice work. The workshop format includes personal reflection time, paired and small group sharing, multiple frameworks for thinking about class, and investigations into the role of class in UU. The instructors include Rev. Dorothy Emerson and Denise Moorehead, two of the founders of Class Conversations.
