The Great Book Robbery chronicles the story of 70,000 Palestinian books that were looted by the newly created State of Israel in 1948. Interviews center on eyewitness accounts and cultural critiques that place the book theft within a larger historical-cultural context. In this process, new light is shed on the Palestinian tragedy of 1948 and the moralistic-heroic Israeli narrative of the 1948 war is deconstructed.

This film is presented alongside the exhibition, Librarians and Archivists with Palestine (Sept. 7th - Oct. 25th)
