

Stewart's Shops' Dave Caruso Retires

Dave Caruso, Senior Vice President of Shop Operations for Stewart's Shops, retired effective April 1st.

He remains on Stewart's Board of Directors and will stay involved in special projects and mentorships. As a matter of fact, don't be surprised if you see him more often. He will be attending our NYACS Trade Show and various other industry gatherings in the future.

Throughout his 32-year career with Stewart's, Caruso was instrumental in the company's development into one of the nation's largest family and employee-owned convenience store chains.

Caruso was always in the food and/or service industry. He started out working as a kid in his family's Lake George restaurant, and was employed by Brach's candy and Grand Union before joining Stewart's in 1986, first as a District Auditor, then as a District Manager, and advancing all the way to Senior VP.

His role has included lots of time on the road, visiting each Stewart's Shop across 31 counties to encourage, support, and recognize shop partners.

Caruso has served on the board of the Adirondack Regional Chamber of Commerce, United Way of Ulster County, and the WGHQ Happy Christmas Fund Inc.
