

WHAT KEEP AGGREGATE PRODUCERS UP AT NIGHT?

Hiring qualified personnel. Retaining customers from low-price competitors. Combatting wet spring and summer weather.

These are just a handful of the challenges aggregate producers faced in 2017. Among the countless others that producers faced: dealing with floods, keeping up with demand, and balancing overtime with burned-out employees.

Although producers across sites face unique demands, aggregate operations everywhere share a collective set of challenges for which there may not be obvious solutions. Here are the top 10 that keep aggregate producers up at night.

Note: The figures above each represent the percentage of aggregate producers who tell P&Q that the corresponding factor currently keeps them up at night.

Source – P&Q Magazine