

With nearly 1,800 languages around the world without even a single word of Scripture available in them, Wycliffe Bible Translators is dedicated to bringing this tragic number down to zero. Through translation and language development projects, health and trauma healing initiatives, as well as education and literacy programs, lives are being transformed and hope restored to communities worldwide.

Kelly Martin is a Lubbock native, and as a writer and photographer, Kelly is eager to begin her assignment with Wycliffe and contribute to this incredible task.

Serving full-time in this capacity is no solitary effort. Kelly must first bring together a monthly prayer and financial partnership team before she can begin serving.

She is currently at 70% of the monthly/ annual partnerships needed before she can step into her ministry assignment. Partnership is incredibly simple, but it is absolutely essential in getting her to the field to begin serving. A few dollars a month will directly impact the ability of people around the world to have access to God's Word for the first time ever!

- Monthly or annual partnerships (of any amount) bring Kelly closer to 100%; only these recurring partnerships are able to be contributed towards her partnership percentage.
- Partnership can be on an individual, family, or business basis.
- Kelly's first term of service is considered 3 years and represents the amount of time she hopes her partners will commit to partnering initially. However, it is her prayer that partners will be blessed by their role in Bible translation and choose to continue this journey with her.

Kelly would love to connect with you, answer questions you may have, or welcome you as a partner through her personal missionary page:
