Come hear internationally renowned child psychiatrist Boris Birmaher, MD, discuss depression and anxiety with helpful practical advice from pediatrician Diane Bloomfield, MD, on how to manage these issues in a busy pediatric practice.

Pediatricians are divided into small groups and participate in case-based learning moderated by an expert pediatrician and an expert child psychiatrist. Building on the case-based discussion, the expert team demonstrates a simulated call to the New York State CAP PC hotline where child psychiatrists provide free phone consultation to pediatric primary care providers. This demonstration shows pediatricians the benefits of such a line and child psychiatrists how they may provide such consultation in their own settings.

The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry designates this live activity for a maximum of 3 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

This activity is part of the 63rd Annual Meeting of the American Academy of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry.
