Joe Duncan

Attorney-at-Law

Huie, Fernambucq & Stewart, LLP

Joe Duncan stands at the ready for his clients. With a quiet confidence and fiercely competitive spirit, he is always prepared to strategically and efficiently defend his clients. Joe believes firmly in putting clients first and never losing sight of the big picture. As a result, his clients have come to trust on him to be skilled, resourceful, dependable and fearless.

Since joining the firm in 2003, Joe has built a practice that consists of the defense of claims relating to personal injury, product liability, contractual disputes and insurance defense at both the trial and appellate levels. He works for clients ranging from Fortune 500 companies to contractors and startup businesses.

Joe successfully argued before the Alabama Supreme Court to have the statute of limitations for wanton personal injury claims reduced from six years to two years. He also proposed the "accepted-work doctrine" to the Alabama Supreme Court to limit road builder liability. The Court applied the doctrine reversing a $7.5 million verdict in favor of plaintiffs and rendered the judgment in favor of the defendant.

When he's not working, Joe finds time to coach baseball and involve himself in charity work. He also runs half marathons, travels and plays Santa Claus at Christmas. He is married to Ellen, and they have two children, Porter and Sophie.

Joe earned his BS from Auburn University and his JD from The University of Alabama School of Law.
