

Speakers Bureau Volunteers Sought

Sharing the story of refugees & immigration

The national debate rages about the value of refugees and immigration. What are the facts? How can we more broadly share?

Last year, staff of the Institute made 208 presentations to more than 10,000 St. Louisans. Still, more people must be reached, especially at new locations.

Accordingly, we are pleased to announce the debut of the International Institute Speakers Bureau. For 2017, we aim to recruit at least 20 volunteers who, once trained, will make three presentations or more annually. Themed PowerPoints will be provided, including Refugee 101, the US Immigration Process, and the Economic Impact of Immigrants (in St. Louis and MO).

Are you intrigued? Are you comfortable speaking publically? Both native-born and immigrant speakers are sought.
