A Day with Dr. Thomas Long

Author of The Witness of Preaching

Friday, October 13, 2017
9 am—4 pm

Registration begins at 8:30 am

9 am — Preaching in a Disenchantment Age

In a time when many traditional church structures are crumbling, when our communities are increasingly multicultural and religiously pluralistic, when the so-called "Nones" are growing in number, and when even longtime Christians confess uncertainty about their faith, preachers need to respond nimbly to these challenges. We will talk about how preaching today can recover the voice of enchantment in the face of disenchantment, the voice of wisdom in the face of uncertainty, and the voice of disruption in the face of complacency.

12 Noon Lunch

1 pm — Ending Well, Beginning Well: Developing Sermons for the End of the Christian Year and for Advent/Christmas

In this session we will look at some of the upcoming lectionary texts for the weeks between the workshop and Christmas. These will be the Sundays closing out the old church year and beginning the new one. The emphasis will be very practical. We will look at these biblical texts and explore sermon approaches and ideas in them. The goal is that each participant, even those who do not strictly follow the lectionary, will find some good help and sermon ideas for the coming weeks.
